MOVES TO MGM MARBELLA

MGM is delighted to announce that undefeated light-welterweight Thomas Stalker is leaving Liverpool behind him and relocating to MGM in Spain.

Stalker, captain of the TEAM GB boxing team at the 2012 Olympics in London, has since turned professional. He remains undefeated and has scored seven wins in that time and continues to show great promise. MGM is very excited to have him on board and the team feels sure his career will go from strength to strength.

At MGM, Stalker will be trained by head coach Seamus Macklin, Matthew's younger brother.

The 29 year-old is promoted by Frank Warren and is currently preparing for his next fight on 17th May. There are also plans for Stalker to spend some time training in the US.

The 2010 Commonwealth gold medallist will be joining the likes of Matthew Macklin, Bradley Saunders, Jamie Kavanagh, new Irish champion Peter McDonagh and many more top quality professional boxers at MGM. There are exciting times ahead and both MGM and Stalker are looking forward to getting started.
